

What about Renegade Pipes & Drums?

The Renegades make a big noise. It's funky and fun, and has many uses – here are a few ideas.

At weddings :

1) Welcome guests & the bride's car to the ceremony

Thinking of having a piper at the door to announce your big day? Why not have a piper and a funky drummer. It'll make the day a bit more bouncy!

2) During the ceremony

The Smallpipes are the perfect sound to make your way down the aisle, sign the register, and close the ceremony itself to. With the addition of a subtly-played frame drum, the atmosphere will be magical!

3) Reception Entertainment

Have the sound of a good-going celtic 'session' to keep your guests entertained during drinks & photos. The sound of Bodhran (Irish drum), low whistle and the Smallpipes will create that party atmosphere.

At conferences, functions & parties :

1) Welcome your guests

Have some funky bagpipes and drums at the door to kick off your event in style!

2) Drinks reception

Lively music can really brighten up a reception. If you want something low-key and acoustic, the perfect partnership of Smallpipes & Bodhran, interspersed with the sweet sound of the celtic 'low whistle' will provide the right vibe. If you'd like it more lively, Highland Pipes & Djembe make a dynamite duo, and will really get your guests ready to party!

3) In Concert

Dave & Donald can present up to 90 minutes of music on stage, usually in the form of two separate 30-45 minute sets.

The set covers a wide range of music & moods, from kicking Highland Pipes & Djembe, right the way down to Celtic 'low whistle' & subtle frame drums, and the beautiful & mysterious 'Hang'. On the way, they will take your guests on a tour of music from places as diverse as Hungary, India, Spain, Ireland and Scotland.

These are just some of the ways in which Renegade Pipes & Drums can add to your event. Feel free to use your imagination, and enquire about what else might be possible.
